

School Outreach

At our school outreach programmes, we visit Primary and Secondary schools to engage students via PowerPoint presentations, video clips, mini quizzes and our website. We teach students how to conserve energy at school and at home.

We have also partnered with Petrotrin to run workshops at primary schools in their fence line communities and also with other NGO's to spread the word about energy.

Our secondary school's caravan incorporated the light bulb exchange programme where students not only learned about energy sources, renewable energy and energy efficiency but also received energy efficient CFL light bulbs to replace the incandescent light bulbs in their homes.

Senator the Honourable Kevin C Ramnarine shows the students and Principal the solar panel display after the programme has ended.

Students eagerly respond to a question asked by a presenter from the Ministry of Energy and Energy Affairs at an Outreach activity at their school.

Students of the Claxton Bay Junior Anglican School proudly display their tokens received for participation in the Outreach activity that took place at their school.
